About Island Health

Excellent health and care for everyone, everywhere, every time.

At Island Health, our values guide our actions and relationships, shaping how we make decisions and plan for the future. We are one of the eight regional health authorities in British Columbia, with more than 27,500 employees, 2,100 physician partners and 2,200 volunteers. We are the largest employer on Vancouver Island and we provide a comprehensive range of progressive health services to more than 850,000 residents of Vancouver Island and adjacent coastal communities in both urban and remote settings.

Nanaimo

As Vancouver Island's second largest city, Nanaimo is home to 90,500 residents who enjoy the small city friendliness coupled with all the amenities of bigger cities. With a charming oceanfront downtown setting and easy access to walking trails, Nanaimo offers an attractive quality of life, with a relaxed island culture and affordable housing. The beautiful harbour front walkway runs four kilometers along the downtown harbour to the BC Ferries Departure Bay terminal.

Comox Valley

Nestled between the mountains and ocean on central Vancouver Island, the Comox Valley is an ideal location for outdoor enthusiasts. It is one of the few places you can golf and ski in the same day, explore the endless hiking trails or embark on a kayak adventure. The Comox Valley comprises three unique communities – Courtenay, Comox and Cumberland. Daily WestJet flights make this region easily accessible. The region is growing rapidly due to affordable housing and friendly neighbourhoods that are ideal for raising a family.

Territory Acknowledgement

Before Canada and BC were formed, Indigenous peoples lived in balance and interconnectedness with the land and water in which the necessities of life are provided. Health disparities persist, which are due to the impacts of colonization and Indigenous-specific racism. Healthy lands, healthy people. Island Health acknowledges and recognizes these homelands and the stewardship of Indigenous peoples of this land; it is with humility we continue to work toward building our relationship.
