Make a Meaningful Impact Every Day

At Kingston Health Sciences Centre (KHSC), our Audiologists are trusted clinicians who help patients of all ages – from newborns to seniors – navigate hearing challenges with compassion and clinical excellence. If you're passionate about patient-centred care and want to work in a collaborative, forward-thinking environment, we'd love to hear from you.

What You'll Do

- Assess hearing in infants, children, and adults
- Perform comprehensive testing, including history taking and electrophysiological testing
- Analyze and interpret a wide range of audiological results
- Clearly communicate procedures, results, and treatment plans to patients and caregivers
- Collaborate with interdisciplinary teams and external service providers, including ENTs and Speech Language Pathologists
- Select, fit, verify, and dispense hearing aids and assistive devices
- Provide detailed reports and recommendations to referring professionals
- Document patient care in alignment with CASLPO standards and KHSC policies
- Coordinate referrals to appropriate agencies and professionals
- Participate in the Infant Hearing Program

- Advocate for patients with hearing loss
 - Promote the field of Audiology within healthcare and the community
 - Supervise Audiology technicians and mentor new clinical staff
 - Teach and support Audiology and healthcare students
 - Contribute to departmental policy development and quality improvement initiatives
 - Participate in hospital committees and professional practice activities
 - Stay current with professional education and CASLPO requirements
